Chatham House Renovation

A near-total renovation in a golf course setting

Renovated Chatham House in Mooresville

PROJECT | Extensive renovation LOCATION | Mooresville, NC SETTING | Golf course and pool

A complete interior transformation

The Chatham House renovation was an extensive, near-total gut of a high-end home in Mooresville, North Carolina. Set on a golf course with a pool in the backyard, the project renewed the interior and strengthened the connection between the home and its outdoor living space.

Two dropped floor areas were raised to create level transitions, eliminating the sunken living room and the sunken recreation area above the garage. High-end materials and finishes were used throughout.

THE TRANSFORMATION

Master bath before and after

The master bath was renewed with a custom double vanity and high-end finishes. The renovation also raised two dropped floor areas, connected the main living spaces, and added a custom five-panel stacking door, screened rear porch and power screen for easier access to the pool area.

Master bath before renovation

AFTER

Finished double vanity and wood feature wall

FINISHED SPACES

Kitchen cabinetry and stone island

Kitchen and adjoining dining area

Great room with coffered ceiling and stone fireplace

Dining room opening to the rear living area
